

Vicki Greene

Born and raised in Brooklyn, New York, I attended C.W. Post College and received a B.A. in History and Secondary Education. After living in Boynton Beach, Florida for twenty three years, I was finally able to move to Brunswick, GA in January, 2006. I retired from Immigration and Customs Enforcement (formerly U.S. Customs) in 2007, which has given me time to pursue my passion for photography. Although I have always been interested in taking pictures and have taken courses over the years, it wasn't until recently that I have dedicated more time and effort into learning what it takes to be a photographer. I have taken several classes at Georgia Coastal Community College and will continue to do so. I am also a member of The Glynn Arts Photography Guild which has encouraged me to step outside my comfort zone of subject matter. The monthly field trips and homework assignments have enabled me to explore Coastal Georgia and the beauty of the area.
